

TWENTY THREE

PRESS RELEASE

The perfect background music for a nostalgic reunion dinner with your college friends, Cat Rian's new single "Twenty Three" will be released on Friday, March 1st. The type of song that will make you tear up on a plane after you've spent the holidays at home, it speaks to the dichotomy of post-grad life. You have a degree "proving" that you've learned something, but you feel like you know nothing. Everyone tells you to enjoy your youth, but you're too scared of getting older to enjoy anything at all.

This is the sixth installment of Cat's debut collection of eight singles. Sonically, these songs were created as an album, but they'll be released as singles and playlisted together under the title "I THINK I LOVE YOU." This collection was inspired by learning how to love in your early twenties - how to love yourself, how to fall in love with someone else, how to fall out of it, and how to create a life you love living... Wait, am I in love?!

Cat Rian is a Berklee-educated singer, songwriter, and producer who likes to wear pink cowboy boots and cry (a lot). Her music bridges sweet, Kacey Musgraves-esque vocals with Morgan Wallen inspired trap/country beats and delicate, brutally honest lyricism. As a Filipino-American woman who always has something to say, Cat brings a fresh perspective & sound to country music.
